EXECUTIVE MEMORANDUM
FRANK'S ONLY HOPE
FOLLOWING DECISION

United States Supreme Court
Refuses to Allow Filing of Writ of Error in Famous
Case With That Bench

NEW SENTENCE WILL BE IMPOSED DURING WEEK

Governor Slaton Declares He Will Review Records and Weigh All Evidence Before
Passing on Case

The supreme court of the United States Monday refused to grant the application for a writ of error in the case of Leo M. Frank and before the expiration of the present week Frank will be sentenced to death by the Georgia state court.

NO STATEMENT
Frank was sitting in his cell conversing with his father when the news that the courts again had refused him a writ of error. Neither he nor his father exhibited emotion or surprise, and the convicted man refused to make any statement.

Lawyers familiar with the Frank case declared that they knew of no hope that can be made by his attorneys except an appeal to the pardon board and that finally to the United States supreme court.

Chief Justice White, who rendered a verbal decision of the court, said that the case was not a proper one for further statement, and Washington attorneys, according to dispatches, looked for the case of Frank to be taken up by the courts of the state.

FRANK MOORE IS SHOT BY AN UNIDENTIFIED NEGRO
WASHCROSS, Ga., Dec. 7.—Shot down the road at Glenmore by an unidentified Negro, Frank Moore, member of a well-known family of Tennessee and son of the late Rev. Francis Moore, of Somerville, is in a precarious hospital today in a critical condition. The bullet fired at him broke a collar bone and lodged against his spinal column.

His assailant has not been caught.

In the Wake Of the War With Corey

Wounded Germans are healed, fattened up and then rushed back to war, says Mr. Corey, writing from Berlin. Sometimes they see their families for a few days before they return to the front.

BY HERBERT COREY.

(Copyright, 1914, by Herbert Corey.)
Berlin, Nov. 27.—"We are fattening them up—just like hogs," said the hospital orderly. "Pretty soon they will go back to the war."

Fifty men were standing at attention by their beds in a Berlin hospital. Except for the hospital pallor, and a thinness of cheek, and a look of the eye that might have been unbecomingly, they seemed fairly fit. The orderly was handing out their dinner table to them. They were given generous sandwiches and great hunks of sausage, and steaming mugs of milk and cocoa.

"All good food," said the orderly. "They have no appetites. Soon they will be fat and well for fighting."

These men had been out slightly wounded. They had taken a bullet through the leg, or a bayonet or bullet or shrapnel or shrapnel. Anything might happen in war, and they had been hurt. They were sent to the hospital. There they were given the best of food and care. They were given the best of food and care.

"They will have a two or three days' rest," said the orderly, "to spend at home and say good-by again. Then they will be off to the war."

That is what the Germans are doing. They are giving the wounded a two or three days' rest, and then they are sending them back to the front. They are giving the wounded a two or three days' rest, and then they are sending them back to the front.

They are going to the front. They are going to the front. They are going to the front. They are going to the front. They are going to the front. They are going to the front. They are going to the front. They are going to the front.

"I am the fourth man," said Broecker. "Now they will let me go. But they would not let me go. I know I'll get it in this war," said he.

Long ago Germany called the Landwehr and Landsturm to the colors. They were called to the colors. They were called to the colors. They were called to the colors. They were called to the colors. They were called to the colors. They were called to the colors. They were called to the colors.

Federation of Trades and Ministers Join Hands With Chamber of Commerce to Boost Conditions

NOW IS TIME TO ACT, SAYS SECRETARY COOPER
Labor Is Plentiful, Material Is Cheap, and Many Men in Atlanta Are Out of Work, He Declares

An enthusiastic campaign to solve the problem of the unemployed in Atlanta, was launched simultaneously Monday morning by Secretary Walter G. Cooper, of the chamber of commerce, the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the Evangelical Ministers' association and other bodies, working in co-operation to start a "build now" movement which shall give work to thousands of men and women in the city now jobless and suffering.

As a first step, delegations from the Federation of Trades and the Ministers' association will petition city council at its meeting Monday afternoon to draw upon its current reserve to make municipal improvements which not only are much needed, but will furnish employment to men who want work.

Another suggestion is to real estate men and contractors. It comes from Walter G. Cooper, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who says that homes can be built now for less money than in years. Labor is plentiful, material cheap, a movement in this direction will benefit both the builder and the employee.

Mell R. Wilkinson, president of the chamber, will take up the problem with the chamber's house of representatives at a called meeting in the assembly room of the city hall next Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Ministers of the city will co-operate in urging their congregations to give where they can, arguing as the stated Monday morning, that "no employer of labor has the right to allow him men to go hungry while he himself has food."

Full-blown from so many different sources at the same time, the movement at its very start, argues that the city is in a position to handle a question of city officials, promises to relieve in short order what might become a threatening situation.

JOHN HANDS.
The city ministers and the Federation of Trades already have joined hands in their petition to city council. Jerome Jones, president of the Federation of Trades, appeared before the evangelists' association Monday morning at its meeting in the First Presbyterian church, asking them to send a committee to council.

It was stated that $220,000, remnants of funds from the last bond issue, voted by the city council, was being used to build a new city hall, a new city hall, a new city hall, a new city hall, a new city hall, a new city hall, a new city hall, a new city hall.

The delegation from the labor federation, headed by Mr. Cooper, is a large one. It is a large one. It is a large one. It is a large one. It is a large one. It is a large one. It is a large one. It is a large one.

Secretary Cooper has written a very interesting article on the "Build Now" subject, which he recalls here. Atlanta, when suffering in the general panic of 1921, set in motion the wheels of industry and trade by building the famous Cotton States exposition, which cost the city $1,000,000.

Another expert on the subject of the unemployed is Mr. Cooper. He is an expert on the subject of the unemployed. He is an expert on the subject of the unemployed. He is an expert on the subject of the unemployed. He is an expert on the subject of the unemployed. He is an expert on the subject of the unemployed. He is an expert on the subject of the unemployed. WILSON OPPOSED TO FAMOUS GRAIN CASE
GOVERNMENT'S DECISION OF

President Tells Mr. Gardner He Thinks It Unwise Way to Handle Question and May Create Wrong Impression of Freight Bureau

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—President Wilson announced today that he was opposed to Representative Gardner's plan for investigating the preparedness of the United States for national defense because he thought it was an unwelcome way of handling a question which might create very unfavorable international impressions.

Representative Gardner called on the president today at the latter's request, to discuss his resolution for an investigating committee. After Mr. Gardner had explained his plan, the president gave out at the White House.

The president told Representative Gardner he was not in favor of the investigation proposed by Mr. Gardner, because he thought it was an unwelcome way of handling a question which might create very unfavorable international impressions.

There are two ways of defeating my resolution. It can be defeated on the ground that it is unwelcome to the public, or it can be defeated on the ground that it is unwelcome to the public. It can be defeated on the ground that it is unwelcome to the public, or it can be defeated on the ground that it is unwelcome to the public.

ATLANTIC COAST STORM INCREASES IN INTENSITY

Identity of Warship Reported Ashore Off Delaware Is Still Not Known

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Blowing sixty miles an hour, a roaring northeaster today swept the Atlantic coast from North Carolina to Maine.

Cried among the many wrecks was an Atlantic coast warship with four funnels
and a fighting top which went ashore yesterday near Ocean City, Md. Her masts were blown away and the ship was seen to be in flames. The ship was not seen again.

Lashed by the sale, the ocean helpless down the sea wall at Seabright, N. J., and placed the town in imminent peril. The small schooner was torn from her anchorage and thrown on the beach.

Life savers seeking to rescue the crew
of a six-masted schooner which struck Topskey shoal on Saturday have been unable to launch their boats.

The velocity of the gale last night
reached high records in some instances.
At midnight the wind was blowing seventy miles an hour at Ocean City, Md., sixty at Nantuxet, sixty at Sandy hook, thirty-six at Atlantic City, sixty at Delaware breakwater, thirty-six at Norfolk, and thirty-six at Cape Hatteras. When the storm became central of the Virginia capes today, however, the wind velocity there increased.
In Hampton Roads the wind was seventy miles an hour. The gale was central of the Virginia capes today, how-
ever, the wind velocity there increased.
In Hampton Roads the wind was seventy miles an hour. The gale was central of the Virginia capes today, how-

The forecasters promised generally fair weather in the south Atlantic region tonight and Tuesday.
The following message was received today from the longer of the moving station at Ocean City, Md. In answer to an inquiry by Secretary Daniels:
"Unable to ascertain nationality or kind of ship; has four funnels, two masts; fighting top each as far as possible to see. Weather thick. Blowing for assistance."

Drifting Lightship Is Caught and Towed In

(By Associated Press.)
NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 7.—Cape Charles lightship has been towed to the navy yard here by tug boat tender Oregon.
The lightship was adrift in Saturday's storm. Both the Cape Charles and the Savannah lightships are off their stations and the government wireless is sending messages of the fog.

The old United States frigate Constitution, which was in danger of sinking off the Virginia coast Saturday
is now safe at the navy yard here.
The wind off the coast today was forty-two miles an hour and the tides are very high. Much damage has been done outside at Ocean View.

Situation Serious
At Seabright, N. J.

A "BETTER BABY" BOY

THIS IS NORMAN P. POLLITT, JR., eight-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman P. Pollitt, of 207 Capitol avenue, who won the prize for the best baby boy between the ages of 6 and 12 months in the "Better Babies" contest recently promoted by the National Congress of Mothers. He also won the prize of six photographs offered in this class by The Journal. This picture of Norman was taken at the age of four months.

JOEL HARRIS' BIRTHDAY WILL BE CELEBRATED

Program Will Be Rendered at
"Wren's Nest" Wednesday
Afternoon

Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the birthday of Joel Chandler Harris will be celebrated at the "Wren's Nest," Mr.
Harris' old home on Gordon street.
On behalf of the Forsyth district institute, of Baltimore, Frederick Paxon will present to the association a bronze panel, a miniature of a large bronze tablet, which is the property of this institute. It is the work of Roger N. Bernham, a noted American sculptor, and depicts all the animals which have helped to make the name of Uncle Remus familiar to every child in America. Mrs. Harris will unveil the panel.
The unveiling will be accepted by Mrs. A. McD.
Wilson, president of the association.
Mrs. Robert Blackburn will recite an original poem, "Uncle Remus," and also one of Mr. Harris' poems. The close club of the Georgia School of Technology will assist in the exercises.
Miss Susie McCalland, assisted by a few of young girls, will comprise the entertainment committee.

All the public schools in Atlanta and throughout Georgia will give one-half hour that day to Uncle Remus stories.
The school at the Georgia school of Technology will give one-half hour that day to Uncle Remus stories. The school at the Georgia school of Technology will give one-half hour that day to Uncle Remus stories. The school at the Georgia school of Technology will give one-half hour that day to Uncle Remus stories.

Losses estimated at $100,000 were caused by the storm during the night.
All business was suspended. The First National bank vaults were flooded two feet deep. Waves broke over Ocean boulevard, shattering the shore, and washed the earth from under many boats.

Fire Boat Sunk by Gale
In Harbor of New York

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The Atlantic gale tore a ship from her harbor and bay with great violence. Several vessels lying at dock were pounded against the piers. A fire boat, lying at a slip in St. George, Staten Island, was sunk in the bay.

Grounded Warship Again
Puts Out to Sea, Report

(By Associated Press.)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—A dispatch
from the Maritime exchange from its station at Lewes, Del., stated that a telephone message at 1:23 p. m., from Ocean City, Md., reported that the warship which had been grounded off that place had proceeded seaward.

A forty-five-mile gale was blowing,
the weather was thick, and it was impossible to learn the ship's identity.

ASKS WHAT CONSTITUTES ATLANTA-MADE PRODUCTS

W. M. Burke Asks Injustice
Is Done Foreign Corporations in Business Here

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 5, 1914.
Editor Journal, Ga.

Dear Sir: What constitutes home
manufacture or home products?
Will you be good enough to permit me
to express a few thoughts on the much discussed question of home products?

I have noticed a good many editorials
lately in the columns of some of the Atlanta papers inviting the public to patronize home industries and when
shopping to insist on products bearing
the Atlanta label.

The question naturally arises, what constitutes home manufacture and Atlanta-made products. I have wondered
if it had occurred to you that an injustice may be done to many worthy consumers doing business in Atlanta, who
are not operating under a local charter,
but who from a standpoint of investment in Atlanta real estate and equipment to Atlanta people, are for all intents and purposes Atlanta manufacturers, and entitled to the same consideration for their branded products as
those of the Atlanta journals.

It is fair to those citizens and the
communities with whom they are associated in the furtherance of Atlanta's greatness, that they and their wares be distinguished from those of the foreign
corporations, and entitled to the same
consideration for their branded products
as those of the Atlanta journals.

I know a number of foreign corporations, of whose investments in Atlanta
real estate exceeds $500,000,
whose annual business runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars, each of
whom employ from 50 to 700 people,
many of whom own their own homes,
whose children are born and raised in Atlanta, the parents of whom, while in
many cases are not Atlanta residents,
are Atlantians by adoption.

It is fair to those citizens and the
communities with whom they are associated in the furtherance of Atlanta's great-
ness, that they and their wares be distinguished from those of the foreign
corporations, and entitled to the same
consideration for their branded products
as those of the Atlanta journals.

We are following, and have followed
in the past, the policy of bringing
before the foreign corporations of the world the advantages of Atlanta as a place in which to locate their branch
plants. Our chamber of commerce is ever alert to the wise policy of bringing these advantages before the manufacturers of the world.

Then we counteract this by saying through the columns of our journals we only want Atlanta-made products to sell, wear and use. You outsiders are well enough when it comes to spending your money for our real estate, for our newspapers, for our city improvements,
our churches, charities and taxes, but
you can't buy your wares because our charter was not taken out in Georgia.

ATLANTA NEGROES AID IN TUBERCULOSIS WAR

Red Cross Seal Funds Will Be Used in Crusade Against Disease

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 5, 1914.
Editor Journal, Ga.

Dear Sir: What constitutes home
manufacture or home products?
Will you be good enough to permit me
to express a few thoughts on the much discussed question of home products?

I have noticed a good many editorials
lately in the columns of some of the Atlanta papers inviting the public to
patronize home industries and when
shopping to insist on products bearing
the Atlanta label.

The question naturally arises, what
constitutes home manufacture and Atlanta-made products. I have wondered
if it had occurred to you that an injustice may be done to many worthy consumers doing business in Atlanta, who
are not operating under a local charter,
but who from a standpoint of investment in Atlanta real estate and equipment to Atlanta people, are for all
 intents and purposes Atlanta manufacturers, and entitled to the same consideration for their branded products as
those of the Atlanta journals.

It is fair to those citizens and the
communities with whom they are associated in the furtherance of Atlanta's great-
ness, that they and their wares be distinguished from those of the foreign
corporations, and entitled to the same
consideration for their branded products
as those of the Atlanta journals.

I know a number of foreign corporations, of whose investments in Atlanta
real estate exceeds $500,000,
whose annual business runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars, each of
whom employ from 50 to 700 people,
many of whom own their own homes,
whose children are born and raised in Atlanta, the parents of whom, while in
many cases are not Atlanta residents,
are Atlantians by adoption.

It is fair to those citizens and the
communities with whom they are associated in the furtherance of Atlanta's great-
ness, that they and their wares be distinguished from those of the foreign
corporations, and entitled to the same
consideration for their branded products
as those of the Atlanta journals.

We are following, and have followed
in the past, the policy of bringing
before the foreign corporations of the
world the advantages of Atlanta as a
place in which to locate their branch
plants. Our chamber of commerce is
ever alert to the wise policy of bringing these advantages before the manufacturers of the world.

newspapers, for our city improvements,

you can't buy your wares because our

MISS ANNE ORME WILL BE BURIED FROM HOME

Rev. J. R. Atkinson, of St.
Philips Cathedral, Will Officiate

The funeral of Miss Anne Orme, daughter of the late Mr. J. T. Orme and of Mrs. Mary Dickinson Orme, will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence, 42 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Rev. J. R. Atkinson, dean of St. Philips cathedral, will officiate, and interment will be at Oakland cemetery. The pallbearers will be Beverly Dulles, J.
Dwight Martin, Lewis C. Gregg, Daniel
McDougal, Carl Collins and Ernest Ortle.

Miss Orme died last Friday at Lake Sarasota, N. Y. She was one of the most lovely and popular girls in Atlanta, prominent in society and greatly admired by many friends. Her death has caused the deepest sorrow to all who knew her.

FIRTH OF FORTH NOW CLOSED TO FISHERMEN

Order of British Admiralty Is Hard Blow to the Poor

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The admiralty
today ordered that the whole fishing fleet in the Firth of Forth, Scotland, cease operations. The order was received with consternation by a thousand fishermen who face ruin. The population also is excited, as the people believe the price of fish will advance beyond the reach of the poor, whose principal food is fish.

The Firth probably will be closed to fishing until the end of the war.

HONOR GUEST AT PARTY SERIES

MRS. WILLIAM RUSSELL HOYT.

Mrs. Hoyt, whose marriage was an interesting event of the spring has been honor guest at a series of parties given during the past month. The tea given by Mrs. George Brown and the reception at which Mrs. J. Edgar Huntcutt entertained in her honor were beautiful events of the latter part of November.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

By Thornton W. Burgess

Certainly Bower the Hound hadn't the least intention in the world of helping Bobby Coon. No, indeed! That was the last thing that would enter his head. And yet Bower did help Bobby and he did it at just the time when help was most needed. The funny thing is, Bower didn't know that he was helping Bobby and he doesn't know that he did it to this day. And that goes to show how little we can tell what an act of our own may mean to another.

Bobby had reached a hollow high up in a big tree, and in this he had hidden while down below Farmer Brown's Boy and some other hunters were discussing as to who should climb the tree. Bobby had just been seen in by all but Farmer Brown's Boy. The latter had been Bobby crossing from tree to tree and knew just where he was hiding, but Bobby didn't know this and neither did the other hunters. The fact is, Farmer Brown's Boy was really Bobby's friend and the one reason why he was out hunting Bobby that night was to try to keep the other hunters from getting him. It was to give Bobby a chance to show his present hiding place that Farmer Brown's Boy had made such a fuss about climbing that tree.

Now Bower the Hound had begun to lose interest in the hunt for Bobby Coon. He had done his share. He had found Bobby's tracks and he had followed them until he had forced Bobby to climb a tree. It seemed to him that these men folk were dreadfully stupid. He had shown them where Bobby Coon was and he couldn't understand why they didn't get him. Now that he could no longer tell them where he was, he was fast losing interest. There was no excitement waiting around the foot of a tree. Presently he began to start around to see what other tracks he could find. No one noticed him. He kept going farther and farther. He was that! He miffed and snuffed. It was the tracks of Reddy Fox. Now, wow, wow, wow, wow, wow! roared Bower and was off with his nose to the ground. In great excitement the other dog joined him and they made the Green Forest ring with their voices.

"There!" exclaimed one of the hunters, "that coon has stowed down while we have been disputing and has got away. Come on! We want to be somewhere else when the dogs track him again!"

One of them grabbed up his terrible gun, others caught up the lanterns, for it was night now, and away they hurried after the dogs. Last of all was Farmer Brown's boy, and he was chuckling to himself. What air! Why at the thought of how those other hunters were going to be fooled. He understood just what Bower the Hound was saying—"A fox! a fox! a fox!"

"A fox! a fox! a fox!"

Bobby Coon this night," said he, talking to himself as he followed the others. "Good old Bower! He did just what I hoped he would do. He has done Bobby Coon a mighty good turn, though he doesn't know it. I hope that Coon will know enough to get away from here before these fellows find out that it is Fox they are chasing. This is his chance if he only knows enough to take it."

And Bobby Coon did. By the time the hunters returned, tired and very much put out, he was far away and safe.

There's a Big Difference in Flour

Flour is not all alike. Out of hundreds of brands there are not even two of the same quality. Only one will make the very best loaf of bread, the finest biscuits and pastry. Only one can rank first. All shoemakers have the same leather to choose from, but some make very poor shoes. And all flour makers have the same wheat to choose from, but they don't all use the same care.

The Pillsburys leave nothing to chance. Every purchase of wheat, every operation in the milling of wheat, every step in each process, is subjected to the searchlight of science. They don't depend on the variable judgment of men but on the cold and impartial decisions of laboratory analysis. Thus they know to the turn of a hair just how much heat-making power, how much starch, how much gluten, how much moisture, there is in each ounce of their flour.

Through thousands of accurate tests they have found exactly what elements in wheat make the choicest of flour and exactly what proportions of each of these elements must be used. And in all the millions of barrels of PILLSBURY'S BEST not one of these vital elements in flour ever varies even an infinitesimal part.

There IS a big difference in flour. There is only one highest in quality—there is only one

COTTON MARKET STEADY; PRICES LITTLE CHANGED

Market in New York Closed
Unchanged to 2 Points Up
From Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 3 to 4 points. Offerings were light and the market held within a point or two of the initial figures during early trading. Reports of large mule sales in the south are attracting attention with reference to their effect on the probable planting and cultivation of cotton next season.

Prices sagged off to about Saturday night's closing figures under realizing during the middle of the morning, but offerings were not heavy and the market steadied shortly after midday on renewed trade buying.

Trading continued very quiet during the early afternoon, but prices held steady within a point or two of Saturday's closing figures owing to the big exports for the day and reports of steady southern spot markets.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—Early prices in the cotton market were higher, with an advance of 1 to 2 points today on buying induced by good cables. The waiting attitude of last week caused by the pending bureau reports was carried over.

offerings were small although there was considerable bearish comment regarding ginning. The size of the crop and weakness of spots in the interior were noted.

Forecasts of large ginning figures in tomorrow's census report caused moderate selling under which prices went 3 points under Saturday's close, but at noon the market was again at a net advance of 2 points.

In the afternoon the market barely moved, standing at 150 at a net advance of 1 point.

BUILD-NOW CAMPAIGN
MEANS WORK FOR THE

and distress were greater than in cities that had ever known in times of peace. The suffering was severest in the cities and Atlanta was no exception. Then Atlanta did a characteristic thing. Instead of sitting still and letting the storm beat in her face, she rose and took the aggressive, started her greatest enterprise, and soon there was no storm so far as Atlanta was concerned.

"The idea came to W. A. Hemphill, then one of the leading men in business circles. Like most everybody else he was loaded heavily with real estate. Perhaps necessarily was the mother of invention in his case, but from whatever source, the idea came to him that Atlanta's salvation was to take the aggressive and do something big.

"So he proposed a great constructive enterprise—an exposition. The idea was immediately adopted, and with the backing of the entire business community, supported by city and county, it was carried into effect. In a few months Atlanta was busier than ever, and it was necessary to send other cities to get enough carpenters.

"Two millions spent. First and last $2,000,000 were spent on that enterprise, and a large part of it by states, cities and companies from a distance.

"Atlanta had lifted herself out of the slough of despond and the city got an impetus as it never had before. Now, I am not proposing an exposition like that. We have passed that stage. But I do think Atlanta ought to take the aggressive and build without delay the schools and all municipal structures she needs.

"It is also a good time to build the southeastern fair we have been planning. It will not be a paper mache exposition to run one season and then burn down, but a great permanent fair, with concrete buildings like those of the Toronto fair, which is doing so much to develop the province of Ontario and the city of Toronto. It makes enough every year to put up a new building, and it not only brings 1,000,000 people to the fair every year, but immensely stimulates trade and industry without a dollar of expense to the city or the people.

"The school buildings and the fair can be built more economically now than in 1908 times, when material and labor are high.

"The same is true of private investments.

"Fuller Callaway, of LaGrange, has long been considered one of the ablest men in the state, and a few days ago he showed that he was one of the wisest. He organized a company to build a new cotton mill right in the midst of the scare caused by the European war. He says doll times are the best times to build in. It costs less and you get organized in time for business when it comes.

"There ought to be some Callaways in Atlanta.

"TIME TO ACT.

"It is about time to put our heads together and start a 'Build Now' campaign. There are hundreds of men in Atlanta with property they have been thinking of improving. They hesitate because of this depression. They probably overlook the fact that it will cost them more to build later, and then they will probably do it in a hurry to meet an emergency. Done now, without delay, it will be better done, and for less money.

"The real estate men and architects who are advisers to prospective builders can help start things. There are practical suggestions they can make, and lents plus the local rate to the point of destination.

Furthermore, Nashville grain dealers have the privilege of holding grain six months, which is ample time for putting it through the various grain elevator processes.

The commerce commission, after hearing the facts set forth in the freight bureau's petition, declared this privilege to be a discrimination in favor of Nashville against Atlanta and other cities similarly situated, and ordered the discrimination removed.

The railroads now have the option of taking the privilege away from Nashville grain dealers and giving it to no city, or of continuing to give the privilege to Nashville and giving it to Atlanta and other cities similarly situated.

The "grain rebelling privilege," as it is commonly referred to in the litigation, has been exclusively enjoyed by Nashville and has given the grain dealers of that city a practical monopoly on the grain brokerage business of the southeast. Nashville, with her great grain elevators, is the south's largest grain center.

It is now expected that Atlanta dealers, with the discrimination against them removed, will enter into direct and active competition with the grain dealers of Nashville, and that there will be a big development of the grain elevator industry in this city.

Chief Justice White delivered the opinion today, which holds that the interstate commerce commission had been acting authoritatively under the act of 1910 to deal with the subject, and that it fell within the long and short haul clause in that act.

DIES AT GRADY HOSPITALNo Relatives Found of Woman
Picked Up by Police Last October

Mrs. Allie Boardman, picked up by the police in October and sent to the Grady hospital, died Monday morning.

When brought to the hospital, as Dr. H. Comer, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, the hospital authorities inquired if she had any relatives.

She gave the name of her next friend, as required by the hospital, as Dr. H. Comer, of New Philadelphia, Ohio. The hospital authorities wired Dr. Comer Monday but have received no answer.

The body was moved to Greenberg & Bond's chapel.

In some cases they may get tenants or show how to get them.

A conference of merchants, manufacturers and real estate men, property owners and architects ought to generate some ideas and start things.

"A little motion in the community will help everybody. It is a true saying that 'those who do things will make mistakes' but the worst mistake one can possibly make is to do nothing.

"I understand that the 'buy in Atlanta' agitation by some of our merchants increased the sales of one factory by $250,000 in one week.

"Dull as it is, lots of money is being spent in Atlanta every day, and the business can do a great deal to help our factories give more work to Atlanta people."

RUSSIANS IN POLAND

have regained Constantinople with considerable difficulty.

Diplomatically, interest is centered on Rome, where the statement of former Premier Giolitti that Austria planned war against Serbia in 1913, has caused something of a sensation.

Progress has been made toward an understanding in the Balkans which will be satisfactory to the allies, according to the Telegraph's Athens correspondent, who understands that a haul has been reached for a rapprochement between Serbia and Bulgaria.

The British, Russian and French ministers have visited the Greek premier, the correspondent reported, and he said that the Greek newspapers declared that the visit concerned proposals that Greece should assist Serbia.

The Journal de Geneve, in Geneva, publishes a dispatch from Bucharest, saying Rumania has definitely decided to enter the war on the side of the allies. This decision, according to the dispatch, in accordance with the wishes of the entire country, including King Ferdinand and all the Rumanian statesmen, except the minister of finance, M. Marghilan.

The question of when Rumania will make her entry into the conflict is still being questioned, however, one side striving to avoid a winter campaign, but the military authorities express the fear that Serbia may be defeated before spring.

ALLIES ON OFFENSIVE.

The French war office in Paris gave out an official communication this afternoon as follows:

"In the region of Armentieres and of Arras, as well as in the Oise territory, in the Aisne region, and in the Argonne there is nothing to report, except to refer in general terms to the superiority of our offensive.

"In Champagne our heavy artillery on several different occasions has shown marked superiority over that of the enemy.

"There is nothing new on the eastern front of our line, where the positions of preceding days have been maintained."

Servians Report Further Advance on Austrians

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, Dec. 7.—A dispatch from Nish, Serbia, reports that the Servians since December 3 have resumed a vigorous offensive. The Servians on Friday, the dispatch says, pursued the enemy's "retreating" forces to the Kolubara river, where the Austrians abandoned four of their batteries.

Belgrade Did Not Resist
Austrians Day of Capture

(By Associated Press.)

NISH, Serbia, Dec. 4.—(Via London.) An official Servian communication issued today asserts that Belgrade was evacuated voluntarily by the Servians and not captured by the Austrians after a battle. The communication states that the Servian authorities and troops left the capital on the evening of November 28—thirty-six hours before the entry of the Austrians. It says that if there was any fighting it was only between rear guards and patrols.

Charcas Did Not Carry
Passengers, Say Agents

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The Charcas was in the service of the New York and Pacific Steamship company. W. R. Grace & Co., local agents of the line, said the ship carried no passengers and probably she had discharged the great part of her cargo before meeting the Privateer Friedrich. The Charcas was built in New Castle, England, in 1906. She was 450 feet long and had a beam of 62 feet. Her gross register was 5,067 tons.

DISMAL, CLOUDY SKIES IN PROSPECT FOR TUESDAY

Atlantians may expect dismal, cloudy skies without more than an occasional glimpse of Old Sol, for the next twenty-four hours, according to the weather bureau Tuesday afternoon.

While the chilliness of the past two or three days has been penetrating, nothing approaching the freezing point has been reached by the thermometer. No rain is expected. The clouds are scheduled to give place to clear skies by Tuesday night.
